

REWARD POINTS

The rewards points are valued at $1 per point, and the full value of the dollar is applied to all items when advertised at their full price and not at their discounted price.

For example.

When 20 points are applied to a $90 item that is advertised at its full RRP, the discount amount will be -$20, therefore the final price will be $70.00

But when that same item is advertised at a discounted price of $63, then the 20 points will be applied at the same relative % discount rate to that item being advertised at that particular time.

For example.

If the $90 item is discounted by 30% The advertised price being $63.00

The reward point equation is as follows. $$63 - (20 \text{ points} - 30\% = 14 \text{ points}) = \49
